

Osher Lifelong Learning Institute at UC Santa Cruz

General Meeting, Sept. 16th
Stevenson College Event Center

General Meeting, Sun., Sept. 16th, 10 a.m. Stevenson College Event Center, UCSC

The summer break is ending and we are about to recommence our Osher Lifelong Learning Institute (OLLI) activities. Our first meeting of the season will be on Sunday, September 16th, and will focus on Interest Group sign-ups. All the interest groups are described on our website at <http://ucsc-osher.wikispaces.com/>.

There are more than 35 groups, providing a wide range of activities. A few are at capacity and currently not accepting new members. However, amongst the remainder, there is sure to be at least one that piques your interests. For newcomers, "Interest Groups" enable you to engage in a range of activities with like-minded folks and develop lasting friendships.

Our September 16th meeting will commence as usual at 10:00 a.m. for half an hour of socialization and refreshments. This will be followed by Interest Group Leaders making short presentations about their groups prior to a sign-up period: Tables for each group will be arranged around the meeting hall so the leaders can provide additional information. Phyllis Wood is the Board member who oversees the Interest Group program and she can also provide assistance. We encourage individuals to suggest new interest groups and Phyllis will work with anyone who wishes to start one. Contact information for the Board members is on the back of this newsletter and on our website. You can read more about the Interest Groups elsewhere in this newsletter.

In this past year, we successfully met the pre-requisites for acceptance into the nationwide Osher Lifelong Learning Institute. Subsequently, UCSC received a million dollars which has been invested on our behalf with the annual earnings used for our non-scholarship expenses. We expect this income, which can't be used for scholarships, will enable us to use all your membership and course contributions for scholarships for returning (mature) students.

Our success has come at a price. The rapid growth in membership strained our operating procedures. Consequently, in the past year we instituted new approaches to data management and have made considerable progress. This is an on-going process but we are seeing the light at the end of the tunnel. Our new data system enables us to automatically address and mail at a lower rate the postcards and newsletters we send you.

I look forward to meeting you on Sunday, September 16th.

Chris

Fall Classes

Lois Widom has lined up five classes to edify and delight us this fall. They are in astronomy, opera, biology, political science, and birdwatching. Your newsletter editor can report from personal experience what fun can be had at our classes; they also provide a place to meet others who share your interests.

We hope you will take this opportunity to enrich your life with some classes.

Now is the time to sign up for these classes. There are no exams or grades, but ample opportunities to participate in discussions. Because the lecturers are not compensated (except for the

Planets, Black Holes, Universe — Prof. Roger Knacke

Explore several of the most pressing questions in astronomy — the things that you read and hear about in the media, often as front-page news. We'll develop overviews of some of the fundamental issues, how they came to the forefront through observations and theory, and of the new and radical ground-based and space-based telescopes and instruments being developed to explore them. We'll also discuss how astronomy overlaps with other fields, including biology and physics, and raise some political and cost issues facing science. A preliminary outline of the class meetings follow

1. Mars and the Search for Life in the Solar System
2. Planets around other Stars and the Search for Life outside the Solar System
3. Black Holes, Galaxies, and New Telescopes

4. The Expanding Universe and Cosmology
5. Dark Matter, Dark Energy, Higgs, and all that great stuff.

At the end of the course we'll be left with many questions only partially answered or unanswered — reflecting the current state of astronomy — questions that confront science today.

Dr. Roger Knacke is Emeritus Professor of Physics and Astronomy, Penn State Erie, retiring as Director of the School of Science in 2010. He received his Ph.D. from UC Berkeley in 1969, and has held positions at SUNY Stony Brook, Max Planck Institute for Nuclear Physics, Heidelberg, NASA Ames, NASA Huntsville, and a post-doctoral position at UC Santa Cruz.

He has authored or co-authored more than 100 papers on interstellar and circumstellar matter, and planetary atmospheres; held numerous NASA and NSF grants; and initiated or participated in the development of courses, outreach, and teaching methodologies at Penn State and Stony Brook. Asteroid 4312 was named "Knacke," in recognition of contributions to the understanding of protoplanetary matter surrounding young stars.

This class will meet from 10 to noon on five Tuesday mornings, October 2, 9, 16, 23, and 30, at the Museum of Art and History, 705 Front Street in Santa Cruz.

Opera Talk — Miriam Ellis

This class is for you opera aficionados who plan to attend the Metropolitan Opera Live in HD Series at the Santa Cruz Cinema 9. On the Wednesday preceding the Saturday screening, Miriam Ellis will lead a lecture-discussion, along with appropriate videos, about the opera. Miriam's classes for OLLI have always been interesting, lively, and very informative. She has been teaching classes in French, opera, theater, and literature for over thirty years. She has been honored by the French government. She is the founder and guiding light of the very successful International Playhouse.

Please note that the first class, on October 10, will meet from 2 to 4. The remaining seven classes will be from 11 to 1. All will take place in the meeting room of the Museum of Art and History on Front St.

October 10: L'Elisir d'Amore
 November 28: La Clemenza di Tito
 December 5: Un Ballo in Maschera
 January 2: Les Troyens
 January 16: Maria Stuarda
 February 13: Rigoletto
 March 13: Francesca da Rimini

Ronnie Gruhn on U.S. Foreign Policy, Pre and Post Election

Ronnie Gruhn, Professor Emerita of Politics at UCSC, will conduct two classes for us, one before and one after the election. The first, on Thursday, October 18, is "Foreign Policy Issues and Options, Obama and Romney." The second, on Thursday, November 15, is "Now What? The President's Options in the World That Is."

Classes are 10 to noon at the Museum of Art & History.

Prof. Gruhn's areas of research and teaching focused on international affairs, (international law, international institutions, human rights, etc.) especially on Africa and other less developed parts of the world. She has a passionate and undiminished interest in reading, writing, and talking about world affairs. She has given two Sunday talks for OLLI and on both occasions we found her to be engaging, knowledgeable, fair, and certainly relevant.

November

A Look at Modern Molecular Biology, Year 3

Four Professors from UCSC will present an overview of current research topics, addressing fundamental questions about how living creatures grow and reproduce. They will also describe how discoveries in molecular biology are used to develop treatments for human diseases. A background in science is not necessary. Everyone with an interest in biology and medicine is encouraged to attend. Many of us found the first two years of this class fascinating as we learned about cutting edge research at UCSC.

The speakers will be:

1. Barry Bowman – The concept of the gene and the gene as a molecule
2. Susan Strome – What is “epigenetics”? Can environment change your genes?

3. Dave Feldheim – The molecular biology of vision. How do you connect your eyes to your brain?
4. Glenn Millhauser – “Mad-cow” and other prion diseases – proteins that behave like genes.

The class will take place on Four Saturday mornings, November 10th and 17th, December 1st and 8th, from 10 to 11:30 in Room 240 of the new Physical Sciences Building across the street from the Core West Parking Structure. Parking is free.

Early 2013

The Chinese Novel: The Dream of the Red Chamber, or The Story of the Stone, by Cao Xueqin (1724?-1764)

Dale Johnson, Professor of Chinese at Oberlin College and UCSC, now emeritus, who gave us an engrossing class on early Chinese poetry last year, has kindly offered to teach a class on an important Chinese novel. However, we wish to determine if enough members would register before proceeding. See last paragraph of this article if you are interested.

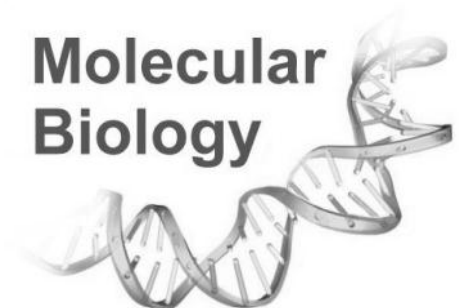

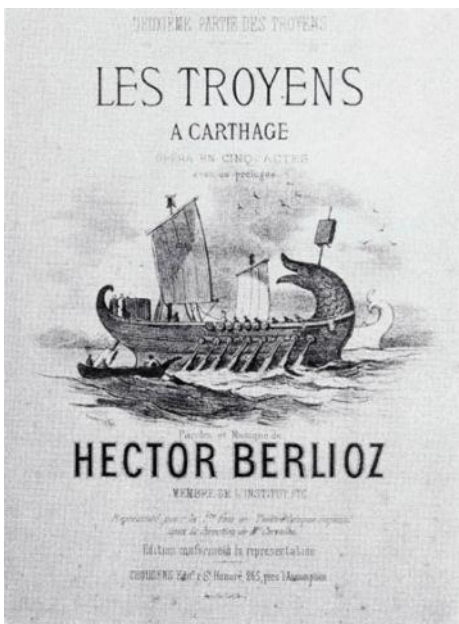

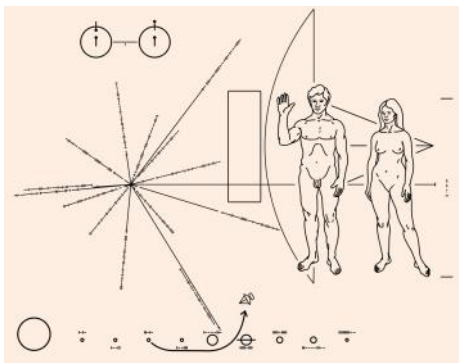

Considered China's greatest novel, it is a vast panorama of a great and privileged Chinese family with a principle cast of some thirty main characters and at least four hundred other secondary roles. Presented in a realistic manner, it chronicles the decline of this great family, describing in intimate detail clan solidarity, honor, respect for old age, parental authority, filial obedience, sexual relationships, the position of women, the role of concubines and servants and other domestics. The tale is suspended on the lives and loves of the twelve young girls and Baoyu, a young boy, who is, in fact the human incarnation of a stone in heaven who asked to come down to earth as a mortal to taste the delights and the tragedies of human life. They each live in a magnificent garden called Grand View Gardens, built so that one of the girls who was taken into the Imperial Palace as a concubine could return home to her family for a 24 hours period and be housed in a manner appropriate to her station. During the course of the novel, Baoyu grows up and faces the two most important events in his life: marriage and the Imperial Examinations.

The course would use The Dream of the Red Chamber, translated by Isabel and Florence McHugh, published in 1958. Used copies may be found on Amazon and elsewhere on the web, and can be obtained new at modest cost from www.ondemandbooks.com. Enter “Dream of the Red Chamber” in the “Search for a Book” search field.

The class would be taught in four two hour sessions in early 2013. This is a very special opportunity for us to develop more understanding of Chinese culture.

We need to access member interest before offering this course. If interested, please contact Lois Widom, LoWidom@yahoo.com, 423-0184.

the class with a new awareness of the natural world. It will involve easy walking, but a considerable amount of standing absolutely still. If this is a problem, bring a small folding chair. Also, remember to bring binoculars.

The class will meet on four Tuesday mornings promptly at 8:00 a.m. on November 6, 13, 20, and 27. The first class will meet in the parking lot of the UCSC Arboretum,
