March 2013

Osher Lifelong Learning Institute at UC Santa Cruz
General Meeting, March 17th
Stevenson College Event Center

General Meeting, Sun., Mar. 17th, 10 a.m.

Stevenson College Event Center, UCSC

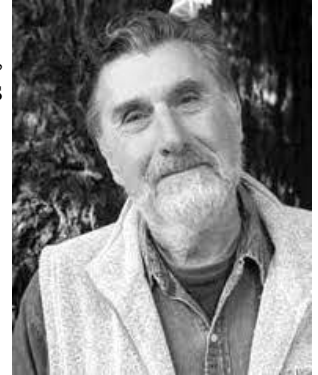

Speaker: Elliot Aronson, professor emeritus of psychology

"My Fifty-five Years of Research on Changing Attitudes and Behavior: Have We Learned Anything Useful?"

Elliot Aronson, Professor emeritus at UCSC, is listed among the 100 most eminent psychologists of the 20th Century, best known for the invention of the Jigsaw Classroom as a method of reducing interethnic hostility and prejudice, cognitive dissonance research, and influential social psychology textbooks. In his text, "The Social Animal," (now in its 11th edition), he stated Aronson's First Law: "People who do crazy things are not necessarily crazy," thus asserting the importance of situational factors in bizarre behavior. He is the only person in the 120-year history of the American Psychological Association to have won all three of its major awards: for writing, for teaching, and for research. In 2007 he received the William James Award for Lifetime Achievement from the Association for Psychological Science. He officially retired in 1994, but continues to teach, write and speak to groups.

Dr. Aronson earned his Bachelor's degree from Brandeis in 1954, a Master's degree from Wesleyan University in 1956 and a Ph.D. from Stanford University in 1959. He has taught at Harvard University, the University of Minnesota, the University of Texas, and the University of California, Santa Cruz. He also served as Distinguished Visiting Professor at Stanford University.

Winter & Spring Courses

Please use the coupons on pages 6, 8, and 9 to sign up for courses. Course information is also available on our website at <http://ucsc-osher.wikispaces.com/classes>. Filling out and mailing a coupon with your donation is your enrollment. You will not be contacted for verification.

We suggest that you donate $20/person for each course. Because the lecturers are not compensated (except for the pleasure of having truly interested and interesting students), and the classroom rental and other expenses are paid from our Osher endowment earnings, your contributions are used primarily for scholarships for re-entry and transfer students. We do not deny access because of hardship, but we do hope you will contribute something.

New Interest Groups

Read It Again, Sam. What's a hallmark of great literature? You can read it more than once with pleasure. In fact, it gets better as you re-read. More and more you appreciate the language and artistry of the work. And it never loses its power to capture you and take you into its world.

The "Read It Again, Sam" group seeks to experience great literature in depth. We read classic novels, poetry, plays, short stories, novella—for the second time. In other words, if you've read a title years ago, you'll now have a chance to read it again. Or if it's a new work for you, you'll read it twice during the course of our meetings—particularly if it's short.

We select our titles by consensus. We meet in Soquel from 1–3 p.m. on the second Wednesday of the month. Interested? Please join us. Send an email to Jon Butah at jon@twoseas.com.

Current Affairs, Group II. Meets on the 2nd and 4th Weds. from 12:30 – 2:00 in the Neary Lagoon area (Chestnut and Laurel). We each come with a news story that has captured our attention that week and as we discuss them, we discover the connections. Contact Cecile Andrews at cecile@cecileandrews.com for address and directions.

There will be opportunity for questions and discussion.

"Warren teaches his courses with a sense of humor, a love of his subjects, and a great desire to see his students learn. He strives to make Shakespeare's plays and other literature understandable, exciting, and accessible."

Professor Warren will devote the first and much of the second class to The Taming of the Shrew, and then all the rest of the time to Henry V.

She has a passionate and undiminished interest in reading, writing, and talking about world affairs. She has given two Sunday talks for OLLI and on both occasions we found her to be engaging, knowledgeable, fair, and certainly relevant. Her classes this past fall on U.S. Foreign Policy, Pre and Post Election, were very well attended and widely enjoyed. Thursdays, May 2 and 9, 10 to noon, at the Museum of Art & History.

Todd emphasizes how to look for and listen to birds, and you will finish the class with a new awareness of the natural world. It will involve easy walking, but a considerable amount of standing absolutely still. If this is a problem, bring a small folding chair. Also, remember to bring binoculars.

The class will meet on four Tuesday mornings promptly at 8:00 a.m. on, April 2, 9, 16, and 23. The first class will meet in the parking lot of the UCSC Arboretum, and Todd will arrange subsequent classes.

The class has a limit of 12 students, and we will accept the first 12 registrants. Jumpstart Your Writing: A Class for Beginners & Continuers

The first thing you should know about creative writing is that it should be fun. Fun to read. Fun to write. If the writer is having fun, some of that will shine though into the reader's life. It's true that good writing requires hard work, but as much as possible, make it enjoyable for yourself. Let your passions ignite the reader's response.

There will be lectures, discussions, and feedback from the instructor and from other students. This is how we learn to improve. We must always consider the effect our writing has on the reader. There will also be assignments to be done at home and brought to the next class.

Pamela Urfer will be teaching this class. She has a master's degree in literature from UCSC and has taught English Literature at Bethany College. She has published a number of books, as can be seen at Amazon.

The class will be on seven Wednesdays, starting April 3, from 3 to 5 p.m. It will meet in the Senior Commons Room at Cowell College on the campus. It will be limited to the first 20 registrants, so register early, and Pamela will talk with you about location and parking. You will be notified if you are not enrolled in the class and of course your donation intended for the class will not be processed. Please note that a separate coupon and payment are required to register for this class so we can return payments to any overflow registrants.

General Meeting, Sunday, April 21st
Speaker: Prof. Douglas Kellogg, MCD Biology

Cells show extraordinary diversity in size and shape. Generation of diverse sizes and shapes requires regulation of the amount and location of growth, as well as coordination of cell growth with cell division. The mechanisms by which cells regulate cell growth and size are poorly understood and represent one of the most important and fundamental unsolved problems in cell biology. The goal of Prof. Kellogg's work at UCSC is to elucidate these mechanisms.

Professor Kellogg's talk will illuminate the progress he and his colleagues are making to uncover the inner workings of cell growth and size.
